NEW HORRORS IN WAR
Early in September the American navy will test a new invention called the "death stroke," guaranteed to kill in 20 minutes.

Righteous critics say these horrid death and destruction machines are the invention of man for peace. They claim that when we become terrible enough men will be afraid to fight.

History does not bear them out. In the old days of war and arrow fighting, cold casualties were never light. But when gunpowder came along, people said, "This will make war too terrible and perhaps end it altogether."

But it didn't. With gunpowder, there were more wars and more casualties than ever.

And then came high explosives, shells, shrapnel and machine guns. Again it was predicted that war had become too terrible to be waged.

The Great War was the answer to that.

The truth is that the first bipeds in war is killing, and the better equipped a nation is to kill, the more confident it is about going to war.

There was enough downright hell in the last war to weary humanity into perpetual peace if humanity is ever to be scared into it. But humanity was not scared into perpetual peace. And no amount of "death strokes" or "death rays" will ever do it.

The one way to end war is to get warlike instincts out of the human system.

ELEVEN YEARS AFTER
Eleven years ago the trumpet rang out through Europe that called the nations of the world to arms.

To those of us who lived with it, the war was the answer to that.

adult minds into it, thoughts of that war come in sickening recollection.

Can that generation just grown to manhood, a generation that saw none of the suffering, experienced the fire of the battlefields, young people to whom it is "just another war?"

This generation that remembers is insulated against war by the fact that they of that which is in its memory.

Can that generation be passed on to young brothers, sons and daughters, or will they, too, find their own brutal, insatiable in another war?

They say the lesson of this strife will turn men forever against the sword.

But they forget that horror is not that which is not inherited. A truth is that the lack of incultivating the will to peace into mankind is yet ahead of us. It is the chief task of education, the first purpose of religion.

And perhaps the heaviest regret attached to memories of this day eleven years ago is that it is none of the misadventures of the Great War even failed to remove the blood from the minds of more than one little generation.

The lesson of war is still to be learned.

It is not woman suffrage, but the electric washing machine that has emancipated women, said a speaker before the National Electric Light Association.

In other words, real emancipation is freedom, not from authority, but from drudgery.

Unless there is a good deal on what use is made of the new leisure, Drudgery is ennobled. But work is good.

Machinery emancipated men from drudgery, but they used that machinery not to escape from work, but to accomplish more work.

Unless this turns out to be true, all of women, the electrification of the home will present new problems of domestic life.

"A modern wife" is not only emancipated. She is a victim, deprived of one occupation before she had acquired herself to another.

The old inefficient home absorbed all and more than all of a woman's energy, just to keep it going. The modern electric bath absorbs much less than all of it.

It is a great opportunity for the woman of brains, self-control and resourcefulness.

Inside or outside the home, paid or unpaid, she finds more inspiring activity in the place of the darning drudgery she has escaped.

She is free, not from work, but for work.

But work of some sort is a necessity, for the normal life of men or women.

FALSE HOPES
German Nationalists are disillusioned. No responsible leader had told them that their marks would be good and their bonds worth anything.

The whole atmosphere of the national movement was a mockery of Old Germany, and the dream that it could be restored by voting to do so.

Of course it cannot. The world which ruled on August 1, 1914, will never be restored in Germany or anywhere.

Perhaps the German Nationalists had to find this out by experience. If so, their present disillusionment may be one element in turning the face of the world around.

HIGH COST OF DIVORCE
Portland's divorce courts are going on strike because Oregon has added an extra five dollars to the cost of shaking off marital bonds in that free and sovereign state.

Prospective divorcees complain bitterly that it is class legislation, restricting divorce to the rich and preventing divorce among the poor.

It certainly is a calamity. Oregon could have been much more diplomatic about it. Nobody likes to pay more for a thing than it is worth.

But if Oregon had tacked that extra five dollars on, say, as a luxury tax, everybody would have been satisfied.

And besides, if two wives of two husbands are not a luxury, why let two husbands be?

NOT FAR FROM SAVAGERY
It is still a fighting world. The week, Paris introduced a Prussian system of universal military service, and the next week took the same conference rather than submit to the search of ships that might be carrying arms.

France, because it has been preaching the cruelty of poison gas, refrained for a while from using it against the left tribesmen, but when they proved hard to subdue by orthodox methods, it considered using it on them and hesitated to join with the other nations in outlawing gas generally.

Really, Solomon Island animal goes around all the time, and fighting is the chief concern of life.

So would it be in civilized communities, if we had not organized them with fighting police, to fight keep the rest of us from fighting. Internationally, we are just enacting the same old, same old stage.

ANTHONY SAYS EARLY ELECTION IN PROVINCE NOW IS A POSSIBILITY
Edmonton, Aug. 7.—Two courses in which an appeal may be made to the country within the next few months are being turned over in the minds of government members, the majority of whom are leaving for their homes this afternoon and night, following the preparation of the session and the drawing of the final slate of the E.C.O. members.

There is the possibility of an election being held early in October. This is a possibility, a by-election, a fight in the Medicine Hat riding. The other is a possibility to have another session of the house this fall, with a general election following closely after promotion.

Nothing will be done in the way of distribution of constitutions to any appreciable extent, it is a matter in view of the casual and irregular nature of the session, and the fact that the government is not in a position to have another session of the house this fall, with a general election following closely after promotion.

The Pen that Convinced the World

The history of the fountain pen is very like that of the telephone, the typewriter and the radio and a host of other present-day conveniences.

Fifty years ago no one thought a satisfactory fountain pen would ever be an accomplished fact. They only worked at times; the ink flow could not be controlled.

But in 1851 came Waterman's Ideal—the perfect fountain pen that would write properly, that would not leak, one that would meet the desires of every man of a pen.

From a beginning of 200 pens in a year—made by hand—Waterman's has developed into a great factory in which are manufactured Waterman's pens in service in all parts of the world.

BUT AT HOME SPEND YOUR MONEY IN MACLEOD

Purchases representing thousands of dollars are lost to us, to our trade, to our clerks and employees, to our laborers and artisans, to all the people of Macleod who exist on the products of their work. This money, if spent at home, would help to recreate Macleod financially, give a wider field of activities in business, would be helpful to every resident of this town.

If we purchased regularly from local merchants, this money would circulate in Macleod in a welcome manner. Our merchants merit our patronage; it is to our interest, and the duty of all of us to encourage the local merchant. He is one of us, he lives among us, he has the right to be encouraged by us, he is anxious to have our custom, and to give us satisfaction. We should under all circumstances give him preference, price for price, quality for quality. And nearly always the price that our local merchant asks is, if we compare the quality, just as cheap as that of the outside merchant.

Never purchase merchandise by catalogue from foreign houses before assuring yourself that you cannot procure the same articles, of the same quality (and frequently of better quality) at the same price from your local merchant.

DEATH OF DR. S. J. KIRK

On Friday evening last the death occurred of Dr. S. J. Kirk, at his residence in Macleod.

The deceased had been an interested spectator of the ball game between Macleod and Carleton on Friday evening, and when Neil Davidson, the local second baseman, accidentally had his finger broken, Dr. Kirk rendered medical assistance, afterward returning to the game, where he continued to sit in the left side. Dr. Kirk proceeded home and went upstairs to his bedroom, his wife who was not feeling well, Dr. Kirk left him for a few seconds to prepare some medicine and on his return found him prostrated in the bathroom. Medical assistance was at once called, but on the arrival of physicians life was found to be extinct.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon last, services being held at the United Church, at 2:30, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Irwin and the Rev. W. A. Lewis, of Calgary, formerly pastor at Macleod, during the service the choir rendered the anthem "Home-land," also two of the hymns. DEATH OF LESTER PETERS

On Sunday last the death occurred of Lester Peters in his 36th year. The deceased man had lived in the Adelaide district for many years, and had sold his farm and purchased big holdings in the Rocky Creek district about ten years ago. He was on a visit to friends in Adelaide when death overtook him.

And then some memento think they are roughing it when they deliberately sign in the draft from a key-

The Royal Bank, as holders of the common stock on the railway, had been made known to the line to any railway company before settlement of its claim against the bank had been made. The bank asked $2,000,000 in settlement of these claims. It was announced that the bank had reduced its claim to $1,700,000, but the bank still is opposed to accepting the offer.

The premier also tabled the offer for the leasing of the railway made by the C.N.R. and C.P.R. The C.N.R. offers to take a lease of seven years with an option to renew for three years, to pay passenger and freight rates into effect, but declines that if any competing line is built into the country, it desires the right to cancel the lease by six months' notice.

The C.N.R. asks a lease for twelve years at a rental of one dollar a year and half the net profits, and also agrees to pay the priorities into effect. Regarding the building of a coast outlet, the C.N.R. president states this is to be left to the future, but that the directors might consider building the outlet when the export grain production along the coast outlet, the C.N.R. has been for three years in succession.

The engineers of both roads have reported that the building of an outlet in the coast at the present time is prohibitive in cost.

Bills Passed
Legislation providing that all gas and oil pipe lines built in the province shall be constructed in accordance with the standards introduced at the all-Canadian convention, which was held in the city of Regina, was introduced at the assembly by Mr. J. A. Brown, M.P., and was passed by a large majority.

Main Features of Natural Resources
The following are the main features of the natural resources of the province:

1. All crown lands, mines, mineral rights and royalties formerly administered by the federal government have been transferred to the province of Alberta.
2. In lieu of an accounting, the province has received a sum of $262,500 per annum for another three years, this sum being credited to the province and the province has agreed to carry out the terms of the agreement.
3. Transfer to the province of the share of the school fund.
4. In the waters under the jurisdiction of the province, the crown to retain, however, the interest in the waters under the jurisdiction of the province.
